The Proud Boys Hold Joint Press Conference with Black Lives Matter Leaders to Denounce White People, Days After Trump Was Asked to Denounce White Supremacy And Didn't

I don't know why anyone in the pro-White dissident right defends nincompoop conservatives. These people would sooner denounce White people having a collective voice than oppose the left. At the last debate, Chris Wallace asked about White people defending themselves and if Trump would tell them to stop. Trump refused. And now the proud boys have cucked and since they were mentioned at the debate, held a press conference in Utah to denounce "White supremacy" alongside BLM. Anyone defending these clowns in the future is my enemy and the enemy of all White people, including the proud boys.

To be fair, I have been a huge Trump critic, yet one thing I will give Trump is that he has never disavowed the alt-right or White people standing up for themselves. His DOJ has gone after some of them, but he has never by his own mouth denounced us. That is a good thing. As a side note, Biden pretending he got into the race because of Charlottesville is just laughable. We're supposed to believe a guy who's never done anything in his life except hold office and who ran for president before is some selfless person who saw Nazis and had to do something about it out of the kindness of his heart. Give me a break!
